THE ARTIST: Michael G. Reagan, a Marine Vietnam Combat Veteran and an internationally-acclaimed portrait artist who lives near Seattle, has assisted charities in raising over $10 million through donated autographed celebrity portraits. As a portrait artist for more than 30 years, Michael has drawn approximately 10,000 portraits including over 2,500 different celebrities, professional athletes, US Presidents and other heads of state. He started this project after receiving a request for a custom portrait from the wife of a soldier killed in Iraq. It is his passion to share his portrait-drawing skills with Fallen Hero families as a comfort in their grief and to honor their loved ones' sacrifice for our country.

FROM THE FAMILIES:

“The portrait of our son hangs in our living room where we all can see him every day. I know you’ve been told countless times how comforting the portraits are but I need to tell you for myself – it is amazing! You managed to draw him so perfectly that I feel like I’m really looking at him when I’m talking to him.”

“We received the portrait of our son, Chris, about 4:30pm Christmas Eve, just before family arrived safely through a growing winter storm of sleet and snow. Perfect timing! Scott and I opened the package at midnight, just the two of us. Scott was amazed at the detail of your work. My first thought was that this image portrays how Chris wants most to be remembered. Thanks for sharing your skills and art so freely.

“Such passion is true love”.
